In 1909 he married Leonora Mary Cecilia Saunders (1870-1912), the former wife of C.H. Hodgson. Died 21 August 1941 at 'Longfield', Trescobeas Road, Falmouth, Cornwall, aged 70. The following contributed by Martin Quinn: He was a brilliant chess player and beat the reigning world champion Emanuel Lasker in a game in 1898. He was described in his obituary by T R Dawson as 'a powerful mathematician, third wrangler of his year [third in the mathematical graduation list at Cambridge], and a brilliant chess problem analyst.' Most of his composition was in the field of fairy chess, where Dawson rated him very highly indeed. He played on top board for Cornwall, and as an endgame analyst he was correspondingly strong if not quite in the class of Grigoriev. He played County Chess for Cornwall where he went on to win the County Championships for 1912, 1913 and 1914.	1	Disciple/ Young monk	Y
